Key Coleman is a damages expert, who often works on insurance matters. Key's background is unusual in that he has a deep understanding of many of the functional areas that lead to insurance disputes, including: underwriting, claims, reinsurance and accounting. He is one of the few experts nationwide who hold both the CPA and the CPCU designations.

Key also has experience with the service providers (agents, brokers, reinsurers, MGAs and TPAs) whose interests can become at odds with those of insurance companies. Because of his background, he is uniquely able to provide special insights to his clients.

Key is Executive Director and Founder of Litigation Economic & Forensic Consulting Group LLC. His firm is located in Greater Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, but his practice is nationwide. Key frequently works in the insurance or reinsurance industry and is often called upon to testify regarding his expert opinions.

Prior to forming his own company, Key served clients in this same capacity at well-known accounting and consulting firms for more than 22 years (starting at PwC where he served clients for 11 years, rising to the level of Partner). Before his consulting career, Key worked for an insurance company for more than 8 years in underwriting management and operations.

Key is a CPA licensed in Pennsylvania, a CFA charterholder, a Chartered Property & Casualty Underwriter (CPCU) and an Associate in Reinsurance (ARe). In addition, he has an MBA in Finance and a BA in Economics. Key is a prolific writer and speaker on issues impacting the insurance industry and is often quoted in the insurance industry trade press. In 2017, Key was interviewed by A. M. Best TV.
